CLEVELAND'S LAST CHARGE TO THE FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

He Reiterates in Stronger Language His Recommendations for Tariff Reform.

A SPEECH FULL OF SENSE AND TRUTH

House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.-The message of Present Cleveland, delivered to the fiftieth Congress upon the re-assembling lo-day, is as follows:

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES: As you assemble for the discharge of the duties you have assumed by an interesting and impressive incident. With the expiration of the present session of the Congress the first century of our constitutional existence as a nation will be completed.

Our survival for one hundred years is whether we have before us a way plain and clear which leads to happiness and

zen. Combinations, monopolies and aggregations of capital were either avoided or sternly regulated and restrained. The pomp and glitter of governments less free offered no temptation and presented no delusion to the plain people who, side by side in friendly competition, wrought for the ennoblement and dignity of man, for the solution of the problem of free government, and for the achievement of the grand destiny awaiting the land which God had given them. A century has passed. Our cities are the abiding places of wealth and luxury; our manufactories yield fortunes never dreamed of by the fathers of the Republie; our business men are madly striving in the race for riches, and immense agination in the magnitude of their undertakings. We view with pride and satisfaction this bright picture of our country's growth and prosperity, while only a closer scrutiny developes a sombre shading. Upon more careful inspection we find the wealth and luxury of our cities mingled with poverty and wretchedness and unremunerative toil; a crowded and fail to furnish their support, or leave no

It appears in the sordid disregard of all but personal interests, in the refusal to abate, for the benefit of others, one iota of selfish advantage, and in combinations to perpetuate such advantages through efforts to control legislation and improperly influence the suffrages of the people. The grievances of those not included within the circle of these beneficiaries, when fully realized, will surely arouse irritation and discontent. Our farmers, ong suffering and patient, struggling in the race of life with the hardest and most unremitting toil, will not fail to see, in spite of misrepresentations and nisleading fallacies, that that they are obliged to accept such prices for their products as are fixed in foreign markets where they compete with the farmers of the world; that their lands are declining in value, while their debts increase; and that, without compensating favor, they are forced by the action of the Government to pay for the benefit of others such enhanced prices for the things they need that the scanty returns of their labor

But the means by which this end shall be accomplished and the sum of direct benefit which shall result to our citizens, present a controversy of of the utmost importance. There she be no scheme accepted as satisfactory by which the burdens of the peopel are only appparently removed. Extravagant appropriations of public money with all their demoralizing consequences should not be tolerated, either as means of relieving the Treasury of its present surplus or as furnishing pretexts for resisting a proper reduction in tariff rates. Existing evils and injustice should be honestly recognized, boldly met and effectively remedied. The extent to which the consideration of such matters subordinate, and postpone action upon subjects of great publie importance, but involving no special, private, or partisan interest, should arrest attention and lead to reformation. A few of the numerous illustrations of this condition may be stated. The crowded condition of the calendar of lands and applications for their donation in favor of States and individuals have been allowed.

and provisions to meet private ends, and it is freely asserted by responsible and experienced parties that a bill appropriating money for public internal improvements would fail to meet with favor unless it contained in it more for local and private advantages than for public benefit. These statements can be much emphasized by an ascertainment of the proportion of Federal legislation which either bears upon its face, its private character or which upon examination develops such a motive power.

And yet the people wait and expect from their chosen representatives such patriotic action as will advance the welfare of the entire country, and this expectation can only be answered by the performance of public duty with unselfish purpose.
